Capital management principles

- MAPFRE adopted in 2006 a capital management policy that quantifies requirements by measuring financial, credit, insurance and reinsurance risks, in anticipation of the Solvency II capital requirements
- Available economic capital is arrived at by adjusting the sum of IFRS equity and available hybrid capital for a series of items, including unrealised capital gains in real estate investments, the value of the in-force life assurance portfolio and goodwill
- At present, the economic capital available at group level, net of financial and credit risks, is equal to 1.5x the capital required by the insurance and reinsurance risks
- At subsidiary level, available economic capital should be equal to the higher of 1.0x the internal capital requirement or 1.1x the regulatory solvency capital requirements
- The Group's Executive Committee may allow higher capitalisation levels for those subsidiaries that need them due to rating, operating or regulatory requirements
- The Group's capital model will be aligned with the EU Solvency II requirements as they come into place
- At present, MAPFRE RE and MAPFRE EMPRESAS are in the process of calibrating the internal capital model, which will be adopted by all other operating units by 2010

Exposure to Catastrophe risk and mitigating measures

- Based on internal models at a 99.6% confidence level, MAPFRE would presently be exposed to an expected maximum net retained catastrophe claim in the region of 4% of the Group's consolidated shareholders' equity as at the close of 2006
- MAPFRE's general catastrophe risk management policy establishes that the catastrophe reinsurance protections in place should cover at least:
 - A 1 in 100 years windstorm event (99% confidence level) per territory
 - A 1 in 250 years earthquake event (99.6% confidence level) per territory
- These exposures are quantified using the outputs obtained from the catastrophe models of market-leading modelling agencies, which are adjusted conservatively according to internal criteria in the case of exposures or perils that are deemed not to be thoroughly covered
- MAPFRE RE concentrates the outwards reinsurance of the group's subsidiaries and acquires all retrocession protections, thereby optimising the retention level for MAPFRE as a whole
- MAPFRE's policy is to cede business to reinsurers rated 'A' or higher by Standard & Poor's (excluding possible fronting transactions or cessions to captives)

Catastrophe exposure

- Maximum net retained pre-tax exposure to selected types of 1 in 100 years catastrophe losses (figures for 2007, non cumulative)
